Sneak Thief V0.20 Hack Tool Free Download

According to its banner, the version of PHP 5.3.x installed on the remote host is older than 5.3.6

These are the issues:

- A NULL pointer can be dereferenced in the function 'zip_name_lookup()' when processing empty archives and can lead to application crashes or code execution. Exploitation requires the "ZIP_ARCHIVE_FL_UNCHANGED" setting to be in use. (CVE-2011-0421)
- A variable casting error exists in the EOF detection which can allow denial of service attacks when handling crafted Image File Directory (IFD) header values in the PHP function 'web_read_data()'. Exploitation requires a 64-bit system and a config setting 'memory_limit' above 406 or unlimited. (CVE-2011-0708)
- An integer overflow vulnerability exists in the implementation of the PHP function 'string_read()' and can allow arbitrary code execution. (CVE-2011-0922)
- Errors exist in the file 'php_image_object.c' in which calls to 'zend_throw_exception_obj()' pass data as a string literal parameter. This can lead to memory corruption when handling PHP archives (pshar). (CVE-2011-1123)
- A buffer overflow error exists in the C function 'buf_format_converter' when the PHP configuration value for 'precision' is set to a large value and can lead to application crashes. (CVE-2011-1464)
- An integer overflow error exists in the C function 'sort_callback()' in the calendar extension and can lead to application crashes. (CVE-2011-1466)
- An unspecified error exists in the implementation of the PHP functions 'htmlspecialchars()' and 'htmlspecialchars_callback()' in the XML extension. This error can lead to application crashes. (CVE-2011-1467)
- Multiple memory leaks exist in the 'gettext' extension in the PHP functions 'gettext()' and 'gettext_create()' and 'gettext_create()' in the Streams component when accessing FTP URLs with an HTTP proxy. (CVE-2011-1468)
- An integer signedness error and an unspecified error exist in the Zip extension and can lead to denial of service via certain ziparchive streams. (CVE-2011-1470, CVE-2011-1471)
- An unspecified error exists in the security enforcement regarding the parsing of the fat32 protocol with the 'FastCGI Process Manager (FPFM)' SAPI. This error can lead to application crashes.

Also:

- A stack buffer overflow in 'socket_connect()'. (CVE-2011-1938)
- A use-after-free vulnerability in 'substr_replace()'. (CVE-2011-1948)
- A code execution vulnerability in 'ZipArchive::addFile()'. (CVE-2011-1457)
- 'crypt_blowfish' was updated to 1.2. (CVE-2011-2483)
- Multiple null pointer dereferences. (CVE-2011-3182)
- An unspecified crash in 'error_log()'. (CVE-2011-3267)
- A buffer overflow in 'crypt()'. (CVE-2011-3268)

The remote DNS server answers to any request. It is possible to query the name servers (NS) of the root zone (.) and get an answer which is bigger than the original request. By spoofing the source IP address, a remote attacker can leverage this "amplification" to launch a denial of service attack against a thirdparty host using the remote DNS server.
