I am writing a program that takes a time series, axes a time series along a single axis and allows the user to randomly select an arbitrary subset of the time series. For instance, given x1, x2, x3, x4, x5, x6 y1, y2, y3, y4, y5, y6 the user would select a subset of this 6-dimensional array y2, y4, y5, y6 with no known dimensions. What's the best way to do this? A: I think you're looking for something like list containing all the x coordinates list
